Levine Museum of the New South is excited to offer a sponsorship opportunity for Charlotte Loves Beer, part of our popular Southern Accents series for contemporary Southern cultural events. Southern Accents events are participatory programs that bring together both newcomers and rooted members of the Charlotte community to share in experiences that build a sense of local history, culture, and identity. These events create connections for lifelong learners, not only with other history enthusiasts, with unique local cultures, and with culturally significant Charlotte sites.

Charlotte Loves Beer is a historical discussion on how Charlotte, home to over 75 breweries, became a brewery center. The program will feature Daniel Hartis, author of Charlotte Loves Beer: A History of Brewing in the Queen City, a curated beer tasting, and themed trivia.
